

You Paved the Way Women of True Grit

There was no one there to show you
You had to find it on your own
A world that wanted to control you
Fed your resolve to overcome
You believed that voice inside you
More than the multitudes of doubt
And that's what separates
The ordinary from the great
A whisper from a shout

*Don't matter what people say
You do it, your own way
With style and a woman's grace
Conviction, clear vision, true grit
Impassioned with courage, hope and faith
You paved the way*

When I can't seem to move that mountain
Or walk through the lion's den
I look to you for inspiration
And find the strength that lies within
To reach a little higher
Than I ever thought I could
I'm willing to risk it all, knowing
That you have gone before me
So I can stand where you've stood

*Don't matter what people say
You do it, your own way
With style and a woman's grace
Conviction, clear vision, true grit
Impassioned with courage, hope and faith
You paved the way*

c. 2010 Rickles, Hargrove, Harris, Waldron.
Vicki Rickles [Vick's Picks Publishing/BMI]
Jack Hargrove [Vick's Picks Publishing/BMI]
Ashley Harris [Revitalize Publishing/BMI] (www.ashleyharris.com)
Mark Waldron [Acoustic Scribbles Music/BMI] (www.acousticscribbles.com)